

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus is disclosed for producing an audiovisual work. The method and apparatus is based on speech recognition. Extraction of basic units of speech with related time code is performed. The invention may be advantageously used for performing post-production synchronization of a video source, dubbing assisting, closed-captioning assisting and animation generation assisting.